

Based on this graph I would determine that the data should be considered small for under 30 inputs because they perform pretty much the same under 30.